

Whole School Implementation Plan - Personal Development

Promote holistic personal development to cultivate confident, safe, and enriched learners, integrating sustainability, civic engagement, and enrichment opportunities to enhance understanding and expand horizons

Challenges & Context

To ensure pupil engagement and ownership by empowering students rather than just involving them, striking a balance between guidance and autonomy in student-led activities. Staff capacity and buy-in are also crucial, teachers may require support to embed sustainability and civic themes into their subjects, while time and workload pressures could hinder their participation in enrichment and tracking efforts. Tracking and impact measurement present another challenge, there is a need for meaningful ways to evidence pupils' growth in SMSC and British Values, ensuring tools like Enrichment Passports and PD trackers are used purposefully. Inclusivity and accessibility must be prioritized to guarantee that all pupils across the three pathways can access and benefit from a diverse range of suitable opportunities. The sustainability of projects is essential, requiring ongoing momentum, funding, and resources to avoid tokenistic or short-term activities and ensure long-term impact.

Intent

- Empower pupils to become active citizens by engaging in sustainability projects, civic leadership activities, and enrichment opportunities that build confidence, skills, and community connections. Ensure these experiences contribute meaningfully to pupils' personal development and understanding of SMSC and British Values.
- Pupils initiate, lead, and reflect on projects.
- They have real decision-making power and ownership.
- Projects are meaningful, relevant, and connected to real-world issues (e.g. sustainability, community needs).
- Activities have visible outcomes and impact.
- Pupils regularly reflect on their experiences and growth.
- Staff use consistent frameworks to monitor and celebrate progress.
- Adaptations are made to ensure equity.
- Strong links with local organisations, families, and wider networks.
- Projects benefit both pupils and the community.
- SMSC, British Values, and personal development are embedded across subjects and routines—not just in enrichment.
- Achievements are recognised publicly, boosting motivation and pride.
- Pupil contributions are showcased in assemblies, displays, and communications.
- Pupils demonstrate empathy, responsibility, and initiative.
- Pupils show pride in their contributions and encouraging peers to get involved.
- Staff facilitating pupil-led initiatives with guidance and encouragement.
- A culture of participation, where pupils feel their voice matters.
- Strong partnerships with local organisations and families.

Implementation

- Map initiatives to curriculum areas (e.g. eco-projects in science/geography, civic leadership in PSHE).
- Using tracking tools (PD trackers on Earwig, Enrichment Passports).
- Launch a Pupil voice programme/ civic councils.
- Form and maintain partnership with members of the participation team for local authority.
- Launch eco-projects with whole-school events/ themed weeks.
- Start civic initiatives with local partners (e.g. care homes, food banks).
- Introduce enrichment activities through clubs, enrichment weeks and cross-curricular projects.
- Embed reflective practices in tutor time, assemblies, and subject lesson time.
- Use pupil voice tools (surveys, interviews, discussion logs) to gather feedback.
- Host celebration assemblies, exhibitions, and showcase events.
- Share achievements via pupil voice, social media etc.
- Review progress termly and adapt plans based on what's working.
- Involve governors and external partners in evaluation

Impact

- Pupils gain confidence, leadership skills, and a sense of agency. Reflective practices help pupils understand their growth and values. Ownership of projects fosters resilience, initiative, and responsibility.
- Pupils actively engage with spiritual, moral, social, and cultural development through real-world issues.
- British Values (e.g. democracy, mutual respect) are lived experiences, not abstract concepts.
- Curriculum links (e.g. eco-projects in science) make learning relevant and purposeful. Cross-curricular projects deepen understanding and critical thinking.
- Adaptations ensure all pupils can participate, promoting fairness and belonging.
- Staff shift from being instructors to facilitators of pupil-led learning. Use of consistent frameworks (e.g. PD trackers) supports monitoring and celebration.
- Strong partnerships with families and local organisations foster community cohesion. Projects (e.g. with care homes, food banks) create tangible benefits for the community. Public recognition of pupil achievements builds positive school reputation.
- A culture of participation and pupil voice becomes embedded. Pupils feel valued, leading to improved behaviour, attendance, and wellbeing. Assemblies, displays, and social media showcase a celebratory, inclusive ethos.
- Involvement of governors and external partners adds accountability and credibility.
